FIFA 2022 AND THE CLIMATE IN QATAR

For a relatively young football nation, Qatar has registered some surprising achievements along the way to becoming a FIFA World Cup™ host nation in 2022. Football first came to the country in the late 1940s, with rapid development starting early the following decade, as Doha Stadium became the first arena of its kind with a grass pitch in the Gulf region.

The long journey to host FIFA World Cup 2022 started with the beginning of the bidding process in March 2009. In November 2009, Qatar hosted Brazil vs England. In April 2010 the Stadium projects revealed and the GCC ambassadors were launched. In September 2010, FIFA did its inspection visit. 2 December 2010 Nervous excitement gave way to jubilation as FIFA announced Qatar as the host of the 2022 FIFA World Cup™! 3 December 2010 The entire country turned out to welcome the bid team home upon its triumphant return from Zurich.

Qatar 2022 will be the first time the World Cup will be held in the Middle East, and in an Arab and a majority-Muslim country. This tournament will be the last one to involve 32 national teams, including the host nation, as the next one will have 48 teams. And it will also be the first time this is going to be a Winter World Cup. Owing to the climate in Qatar, the tournament is scheduled for late November till mid-December, were the average day temperature is between 16°-and 25° degree C. during these temperatures, players fans and delegates are not facing heat index issues.
